Murder count filed against L. resident

Quadir Hakeem, 30, of 1923 Cumberland St., was charged with capital murder Friday night in the early morning shooting death of a Little Rock man, the police said.

Harry E. Magar, 68, of 3324 High St. was killed about 1:50 a.m. in the 2900 block of S. High Street. He was shot once in the chin during a robbery, the police said.

Sunday Stanfield, 30, of 3409 High St. told police Magar had driven her to the site of the shooting and he was waiting in his car while she went to a nearby residence to wake up a friend.

She told the police she heard a shot and returned to the car to find Magar dead, still sitting in his car.

The police said Magar was shot with a large caliber handgun. Detective Lt. Fred Hensley said Magar was probably shot with his own gun, a .32-caliber pistol, which was found in the car.

Detectives said Magar's wallet was missing. Investigators think two men were involved in the robbery and shooting.

Magar was a security guard at Summit House Apartments. His killing was the 40th homicide in Little Rock this year.

can't be to hire for son

*"There is no case anywhere that finds that attorney's fees,

—Gus Allen
defendant's attorney

parents of juveniles charged as adults to hire lawyers for their offspring.

"Admittedly, it may not be a pleasant experience to expend household dollars for an attorney for a child that has turned from the path the parent wishes him to follow," Mason argued in a court brief. "But to hold that the rest of society must bear the burden of paying for legal representation for a minor child ... would mean that those that truly are in need of the public defender might not be able to have those services."

Allen countered, "There is no case anywhere that finds that attorney's fees, fines and costs are necessities of life."

3 win lawsuit over firing

A federal jury Thursday ordered St. Francis County to pay $15,000 to each of three former sheriff's employees on the grounds that their contracts were breached when they were fired.

Four former employees had contended that they were fired by St. Francis County Sheriff Dave Parkman when he took office Jan. 1, 1987, because they supported then Sheriff Coolidge Conlee. Parkman defeated Conlee in the 1986 election.

They said the county violated their employment contracts because the sheriff's office personnel manual wasn't followed in their dismissal.

U.S. District Judge G. Thomas Eisele directed a verdict for the county and Parkman in the claim of Otto Jones, a jailer.

The jury, after deliberating nearly five hours, exonerated Parkman on the first amendment claim but awarded a total of $48,000 to Pauline Daniels, a cook; Paul Denning, a jailer; and William "Sonny" Wise from the county.

J. Fletcher See III of Little Rock, attorney for the plaintiffs, told the jury in closing arguments that the purported reasons each of the deputies was dismissed were only excuses to cover up the real motivation — that they had supported Conlee.

Fletcher Long of Forrest City, attorney for the county, said Parkman had a right to fire anyone he believed guilty of wrongdoing and he had believed wrongs had been committed by Jones, Daniels and Denning. Denning now lives in Sheridan. The others live in St. Francis County.

The fired employees asked for back pay and unspecified damages.

Sexual abuse charged

Dewey Magar, 32, of 3324 High St., was arrested Thursday on two counts of first-degree sexual abuse of a 12-year-old boy.

The police said the incident occurred Dec. 12 in the 7800 block of Illinois Street, but wasn't reported until Wednesday.

Dear Paul:

In your letter of August 13, 1985 regarding the confidential information sent to you on ~~Dewey Eugene Magar~~, you asked that we keep you informed as other information became available.

I met with Judge Lofton last week and told him how Magar had used Scouting and patch trading to contact young boys for his wrongful purposes.

On Thursday, January 3, 1986, Magar was sentenced to six years in prison for sexual abuse of a 10-year-old boy. Enclosed is a copy of the news account. The judge told me that he would put into parole requirements a restriction to any association with Scouting in the future.

Sincerely,

LR man sentenced in sexual abuse case

Dewey E. Magar, 28, of 3324 High St., was sentenced Thursday in Pulaski County Circuit Court to six years in prison for the sexual abuse of a 10-year-old Little Rock boy.

Magar pleaded guilty Nov. 21, 1985, to the March 24, 1985, first-degree sexual abuse of the boy. Circuit Judge Floyd Lofton stipulated that Magar must serve at least one-third of his prison sentence before becoming eligible for parole.

Judge orders election plans for Humnoke

U.S. District Judge George Howard Jr. gave attorneys 10 days to submit plans for an election process that gives all voters an equal say in school board elections for Humnoke School District No. 5.

"I'm seeking to offer each patron the opportunity to participate in a fair election," he said during a hearing Thursday morning. "Obviously we're not guaranteeing a black representative or a white representative, but we want to assure no patron's vote is diluted."

In October, Howard ordered the school district in Lonoke County, bordering Pulaski County, to end its unconstitutional racial practices, including "at-large" election of school board members. It was the state's first successful challenge of the method of selecting a school board.

John Walker, attorney for three black parents who filed the lawsuit last year, proposed splitting the district into halves with roughly equal populations. The predominantly black community of Allport would be in one district, and Humnoke - about 80 percent white - would be in the other.

Walker also suggested maintaining a five-member board rather than going to a seven-member board as suggested by Ed Weaver, district superintendent. Weaver had no comment on Howard's suggestion that a transition could be arranged without disrupting the five-year terms of incumbent school board members by electing an Allport board member at each of the next two annual elections, then an at-large member, then two Humnoke officials.

A 10-member biracial committee that includes five blacks was named Dec. 31 to work with the court and the school board in establishing non-discriminatory employment criteria and revising student disciplinary procedures.

After reviewing the Air Force Office of Special Investigations file as provided by Special Agent Ed Dill regarding Dewey Magar the following is a summary of that investigative report. This file was reviewed on 5-9-85 at the OSI Office at the Little Rock Air Force Base.

On 7-10-82, while Magar was stationed at Blytheville Air Force Base, the security police on base were notified that the son of a Lt. Col. stationed at the base had been sexually molested by a serviceman, also stationed at the base. An investigation revealed that the 12 year old victim met Magar at a base swimming pool. Magar took the youth to his quarters and offered to give him a massage. While giving the youth a massage on his bed, Magar pulled the boy's shorts down. The boy got up and started to leave. Magar gave the boy his name and telephone number after which the boy left. The youth reported the incident the same day.

On 7-10-82, after the victim was interviewed, Magar was picked up and also interviewed by the security police. Magar admitted that the massaging incident took place and admitted that he became sexually aroused. But he told investigators that he quickly realized that what he was doing was wrong and he stopped. During this interview, Magar also admitted having had a homosexual affair with a young [REDACTED] approximately three years prior to that time.

On 7-12-82 a sexual molestation involving Magar and a male youth who attended church with Magar was reported to the Blytheville Police Department. The incident took place on 7-8-82 off base in Blytheville in the home of a civilian. The incident involved Magar kissing the boy and rubbing the boy's penis. A warrant was sworn out by the boy's father and Magar was arrested by the Blytheville Police Department on 7-13-82.

Magar subsequently underwent psychiatric evaluation at an Air Force facility. In September 1982, Magar was allowed to be discharged from the Air Force in lieu of a court martial. He received a less than honorable discharge. He was also barred from the Blytheville Air Force Base.
